

AN IRON BOSOM.

A Memento of the Train Robbery at Pryor Creek.

Express Messenger Johnson of the M. K. & T. who had a startling experience with robbers in the Indian Territory some weeks ago, came in on his run yesterday, and brought with him, consigned to Detective J. J. Kinney, a trophy or relic, which was part of the armor of one of the train robbers who held him up, and which will be preserved as an interesting memento. The consignment was not done up in paper or otherwise, but came through with an address tag simply tied to it.

The relic is an iron breastplate, which was worn by Frank Barber in his attacks on trains and in other desperate enterprises. It is of boiler iron, hammered into shape, is about eighteen inches long by twelve wide, and is worn with a strap to go around the neck, and another at the waist. The plate is some three-quarters of an inch thick, and its weight is nearly twenty pounds. As seen at the office of the express company, yesterday, it showed the marks of numerous balls on the outer surface. These were explained, however, to have been made, after the iron bosom was captured, by parties testing its infallibility at short range, with the original wearer and his associate robbers not in sight.

Messenger Johnson reported that Frank Barber had been killed Saturday by officers, who have been in pursuit of him ever since the train robbery at Pryor Creek, in the neighborhood of Tahlequah, and not so very far from him and his pals held up the M. K. & T., as already stated.

From Mr. Johnson and other sources, the BAZOO learns of the particulars of the killing. It seems that about two weeks ago three men robbed the house of George Thewey, near Tahlequah. In their haste to get away they left an iron breastplate weighing twenty pounds and other property which was identified as the property of Barber. The matter was kept quiet in order not to alarm Barber, but United States Marshals Connelly, Petty and Ruthford with assistance have been on his track ever since.

Saturday morning Barber was surrounded at Spring Creek. He had been sleeping in a hay stack all night and was riding his horse to the farm house for breakfast, unaware of the presence of the marshal. He carried his gun ready for emergency and when Connelly, from a tree immediately in his path, ordered him to surrender he instantly fired, but without effect.

Connelly fired almost at the same time and Barber wheeled his horse and rode away, discharging his rifle over his shoulder. His horse had come about 300 yards and he had fired ten shots when he fell dead. He had been shot through the breast by one ball, probably the first shot by Connelly from the tree.

There is strong evidence to indicate that this Barber was one of the men who recently robbed the Missouri, Kansas and Texas. He was wanted in three counties in Texas for the killing of their sheriffs. He was 35 year old, and bore scars of other encounters. His body was taken to Tahlequah Saturday night. Papers and packages found on his person leave no doubt as to his identity, and the fact that he was one of the leaders in the Missouri, Kansas and Texas robbery. Four thousand dollars had been offered for his capture.

Possibly Fictitious.

About nine o'clock last evening Officers Joseph Gossage and Bledsoe arrested a man and woman in northeast Sedalia near the woolen mill, under conspicuous circumstances. They were brought to the station and the man, who gave his name as John Harrod gave bond in the sum of $100 for his appearance this morning, and for that of the woman, whose name is down on the slate as Rosa Dunn. In the police court this morning Harrod wanted to plead "not guilty" for both himself and the woman, the charge docketed against them being late hours, etc. The female defendant was not present in court, and the prosecutor earnestly protested against Harrod attempted action for Rosa. He said it was not right, not according to law and the woman must be in court the same as any other lesser or greater offender against the law and ordinance. Judge Brady supported the same view, and decided that she must be present in court for her own self and in propria persona.

Harrod then entered a plea of not guilty and was released on his own personal recognizance to appear to-morrow morning for trial. The woman will also be brought up for examination at the same time.

Harrod is said to be a railroad man, but he seems to be a stranger to the court officials and the police. The Dunn woman is unknown likewise. It is highly probable that the names they gave are fictitious.

Remarkable Rescue.

Mrs. Michael Curtin, Plainfield, Ill., makes the statement that she caught cold, which settled on her lungs; she was treated for a month by her family physician, but grew worse. He told her she was a hopeless victim to consumption and that no medicine could cure her. Her druggist suggested Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption; she bought a bottle and to her delight found herself benefited from first dose. She continued its use and after taking ten bottles, found herself sound and well, now does her own housework and is as well as she ever was.—Free trial bottles of this Great Discovery at Merz and Hale's Drug Store, large bottles 50c and $1.00.

LOOKING INTO THINGS.

A Postoffice Inspector Investigating Several Matters.

The postoffice inspector as a general thing travels incognito, and prefers that his movements from place to place be not chronicled with much particularity. So the presence of Col. M. T. Sullivan, one of these ubiquitous officials of the government in Sedalia has not been known to any extent to any except parties most directly concerned in postal affairs. The BAZOO called on him last night at Siche's and was accorded an audience which was very brief, and resulted in the inspector politely but firmly refusing to divulge anything in regard to his mission to Sedalia, except that it was on official business, and that he was making investigations in the line of his duty.

The BAZOO has been furnished a statement by Mr. Hart Harris, a former employe of the post-office which explains part of Col. Sullivan's errand here, and this is given, substantially, as Mr. Harris made it to the newspaper man.

Mr. Harris was assistant mailing clerk in the postoffice from September, 1888, to February of the present year, when he was promoted to the position of mailing clerk, at a salary of $32 per month. He worked until August, when he and the delivery clerk, Clem Reed, had been raised to $50 per month each to date from the first of July. When he was paid in September, however, he got at the rate of $500 a year instead of $600, as he had expected he would.

On the first of October, instead of getting his back pay equivalent to $65, he was notified that he would have to lose the $15, over and above his salary, this some and a similar amount from Reed, being deducted to pay the helper to the mailing desk. Harris objected to pay the assistant's wages out of his salary, and so did Reed. Harris finally consented to take the $50, signed the pay-roll under the impression that it was for this amount he had placed his name on the sheet. He learned afterward, he says, that the figures covered the $15 of back pay, he believed and believes yet, he was entitled to. The postmaster during the day, a little before noon, came to Harris and after asking the latter if he had signed the pay roll, told him to quit. Harris asked why he was discharged, and Mr. Russell refused to tell him.

Harris afterwards received information from reliable sources that the postmaster had expressed himself as being in doubt as to his right to hold back the salary. Harris consulted an attorney and then wrote on to Washington, laying his case before the proper authorities there. To investigate the matter is one of Col. Sullivan's missions here, and yesterday he and Harris were in consultation several hours. The young man made a complete statement of his grievance, and the inspector committed it to writing, and will forward the paper to Washington.

Harris desires to recover the $15 of back pay and be reinstated in his old position. If he is successful in the matter he will be paid for the time he has been out of his clerkship.

Mr. Russell was called on this morning for a statement in regard to Harris' complaint, but he declined to make any.

Come up and Plead Guilty.

The two parties mentioned elsewhere, as having been arrested last night while loitering in the vicinity of the woolen mill, came into the police court at 11 o'clock this morning and changed their plea to that of guilty. Harrod accompanied Mrs. Dunn and the pair were subjected to questions by Counselor Hoffmann (and Judge Brady, Officer Joe Gossage also made a statement. The lady who is a plump medium-sized person, was dressed in black with a heavy veil over her face, concealing her features. She claimed that she perhaps acted imprudently in being out with Harrod, but disowned having done anything wrong, the way she looked at it after hearing everything deemed necessary, the judge imposed a fine of $5 and costs on each, which the young man paid and the pair were released.

Three Paragraphs.

The Kansas City Star, of Saturday, gives Sedalia three items in its "Missouri Notes," as witness:

Topeka is putting money into Sedalia. That shows there is a dead sure chance of getting it out again.

When the Young Woman's Christian association meets at Sedalia the bloods of that town propose to find out whether girls ever get too pious to flirt.

J. West Goodwin, of the Sedalia BAZOO who underwent a surgical operation in a St. Louis hospital some days ago, is rapidly improving and his physicians expect him to get well. This news will make a great many people in Missouri glad.

AN AGED DARKY

Who Passes Way Just Before Dinner.

At a rude frame dwelling just north of the gas works at half past eleven o'clock this morning an old negro, named Tilda Boone, died with nobody at hand to note the passing away. Tilda was 80 years old and had been in Sedalia about a year. She came here from Fayette. She was feeble from rheumatism and paralysis, and her own children did nothing for her. One of these is George Bimn, a shoemaker on Main street, and the other is Fannie Boone, now in Kansas City, who cast the old lady off long ago, because it interfered with her business as a woman of questionable practices.

The old lady Boone has been a charge on the county and last July she took up her abode, at the house first indicated, with Mrs. Patsy Williams, who was merely a friend and human. Mrs. Boone has been confined to her bed—a rude and rickety affair in the backroom of Mrs. Williams' cottage—for some time, and her death was a mercy, not only to herself but also to those who befriended her.

She will be buried by the city, the county furnishing the coffin. No inquest will be held, as she died from known natural causes.

WINE OF CARDUI, a Tonic for Women.

Admitted to Probate.

The last will and testament of Henry Otten, Sedalia, who died about a week ago, has been probated. It is dated March 23, 1888, and the witnesses thereto are A. P. Morey and Laura Bahner. The deceased leaves to his wife Catherine, a house and two lots on West Cooper street this city. At her death, if she has not previously sold the bequest, this property is to go to his children, share and share alike. The residue of his possessions is bequeathed to his daughters, Rebecca, wife of John M. Glenn, Lillie, wife of Henry Shultz, Maggie, wife of Wm. Kahrs, and to his son William. Messrs. Glenn and Kahrs, sons-in-law, are appointed executors without bond.

We Caution All Against Them.

The unprecedented success and merit of Ely's Cream Balm—a real cure for catarrh, hay fever and cold in the head—has induced many adventurers to place catarrh medicines bearing some resemblance in appearance, style or name upon the market, in order to trade upon the reputation of Ely's Cream Balm. Don't be deceived. Buy only Ely's Cream Balm. Many in your immediate locality will testify in highest commendation of it. A particle is applied to each nostril; no pain; agreeable to use. Price 50 cents.

Report Received.

The BAZOO acknowledges the receipt from the secretary of the interior of a copy of his report for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1889. The first annual report made by any secretary chronicles and discusses chiefly, as a rule, those acts performed under the direction of his predecessor; but in addition to this labor Secretary Noble records several very important events that have taken place in his department during the present administration. Some of these have been consummated since the termination of the last fiscal year; but nevertheless it was deemed proper to recount their progress up to the time of this report. Attention is first called to these as they successively occurred: The opening of Oklahoma; the successful negotiation of a treaty with the Sioux Indians of Dakota, and the advent into the Union of the four new states, North Dakota, South Dakota, Washington and Montana, none having entered previously for thirteen years. The report makes a volume of nearly two hundred pages and is interesting reading.

A Frightful Fall.

This afternoon about half past one o'clock, while two linemen named Wm. Atkinson and Will O'Hara, were at their work on the poles in the Ilgenitz alley, between Ohio and Osage and Third and Fourth streets, the former lost his grip on one of the poles and tumbled to the ground, first alighting in his descent on a shed roof and thence bounding off to the ground. He fell upon his left shoulder, and when his companion and others who hurried to the scene, picked him up, he was unconscious. A hasty examination disclosed that no bones were broken, the only hurt apparently being a scratch alongside his left eye. Dr. Muhl, who made the examination, returned to his office for remedies and while he was gone a stretcher was procured, and the injured man was carried to his home at 605 West Main street. Dr. Crawford was summoned and this physician, on his arrival at Atkinson's house, applied the restoratives. Atkinson was shortly aroused, and the doctor examined him carefully, finding no bones broken. It is thought, however, that some internal injuries may have been sustained. When Atkinson first renewed consciousness at his home he drew up his lower limbs spasmodically and gasped to the full extent of his mouth.

Shortly after he had been taken home, Dr. Muel arrived and Dr. Crawford turned the case over to him.

Atkinson will doubtless be all right in a few days. It is said that the fall was occasioned by the spur, attached to his boot, by which linemen ascend and descend the poles in their repairing, failing to catch in the wood as he was climbing. Before he could recover himself, he commenced to fall and could not save himself.

"What They Say."

In its department under the head covered by the above caption, the Nevada Mail of Saturday gives the following concerning a prominent individual, from W. I. Fisher:

Speaking of Steve Elkins—he and I were school-mates up in Cass county, and I know him like a book. Steve was a pretty good sort of a fellow; had a fine opinion of himself, and always had an eye to number one. It is a fact perhaps not generally known, considering the high place he holds in the councils of the republican party, that he was once in the rebel army—that is, he belonged to the Missouri militia, during Governor Jackson's administration. He and I were in the same company, and Steve was with us the first six months of the war. I don't remember how he left us but think he deserted.

A VALUABLE THUMB

Which a Kansas City Dressmaker Used to Own.

The papers in a suit for $10,000 damages were filed in the office of the circuit clerk this morning, having just been received from Kansas City. They are sent to this court on a change of venue. The plaintiffs in the petition are Sallie W. Will, a dressmaker of Kansas City, and her husband, the defendant being the City Cable Railway company. Mrs. Will states that she was a passenger on one of the cars of the railway company, and in travelling down an incline on that company's road, she was, through the carelessness of the servants of the company, suddenly thrown from her seat, and her right thumb bruised and mashed, so that it was necessary to amputate that useful member. She asks for damages in the sum of $10,000, and for any other relief the court may grant. The attorneys for the plaintiffs are Messrs. Adams, Bucker and Seebree.

BRIDGES GETS THERE.

The Declaration Made That the Sedalian Knocks the Persimmon.

This morning's Globe-Democrat contains the following dispatch from Washington, D. C.

"State Senator McGinnis and other people will be interested in a declaration made at the state department to-day. Mr. L. L. Bridges, of Sedalia, is to be appointed Consul General to Mexico. This was stated without any reservation. State Senator McGinnis will enjoy a double measure of satisfaction. He came here in May and worked for Bridges. He fixed Secretary Blaine, and then saw the President. He thought he had fixed it with the President. Everybody else thought so, too. Mr. Blaine was so confident that he said to Senator McGinnis: 'You had better take the express train home, for if you don't take that commission for Bridges you get to Missouri before you.' Six months ago Mr. Blaine said this to Mr. McGinnis, and the appointment is now ready to be made."

Bridges Pulque Proof

The Kansas Times editorially says: Washington dispatches announce that the appointment of Captain L. L. Bridges of Sedalia to be consul general to Mexico has been definitely determined. The appointment is, we think, a safe one. Captain Bridges passed a winter in Jefferson City during those nightless days when Sedalia was desperately but ineffectually trying to move the capitol from the bluff overlooking the Missouri to the rolling prairies of Pettus county, and it is reasonable to presume, therefore, that he is pulque proof.

Chief Justice Fuller.

A Washington letter writer thus describes the chief justice of the United States supreme court: Chief Justice Fuller is a man of small size, smaller even than President Harrison. He wears long, flowing hair, which is almost entirely white. He is, however, of a very energetic temperament, and rarely sits perfectly still for a minute at a time. He turns over the pages of a brief in a hurry, whispers to an associate, or sends a page on an errand. He is always active, even when his colleagues apparently fall into a doze under the spell of some earnest but tedious barrister.

Made an Assignment.

Late last evening, A. W. Leake, the milliner, 604 Ohio street, made an assignment of his property for the benefit of his creditors, to J. R. Clouton, public administrator of this county. Mr. Clouton gave bond in the sum of $4,000 with J. P. Leake, father of the assignor, and Judge Z. F. Bailey as sureties. The liabilities are estimated at $1,700, with assets of about $2,000.

The cause of the assignment is said to be an overstock of millinery goods, bought by Mr. Leake, and limited demand for them, in this vicinity, just at present. The principal creditors are Chicago parties.

A Startling Disclosure.

RHEUMATIC SYRUP Co., Jackson Mich. GENTS: For years I have been greatly afflicted with inflammatory rheumatism, the pain and soreness of the joints at times being almost unbearable; could move about only with the use of crutches. In addition to this my stomach became badly diseased, and neuralgia set in which threatened to end my day. A travelling man stopping with me gave me quite a history of Hibbard's Rheumatic Syrup, and the peculiarities of its combination, which induced me to try it. I have taken six bottles, and no act in my life affords me greater satisfaction than in writing you that I am a well man.

I believe it to be the best remedy ever formulated.

Robbed a Policeman.

Arthur Daniels, colored, was brought before Justice Blair this morning, charged with larceny. He was arrested by Walter Jackson, a member of the city police; and turned over to Constable Ramsey. Daniels, it seems, stole a pair of boots, a dress and some other articles from Officer Jackson's residence. Tenth and Lamine, this morning, and Jackson soon had the darky under arrest. Daniels pleaded guilty and was fined $5 and costs. He went to jail in default of payment.
